

About John Denver's Windstar Foundation

The Windstar Foundation was founded in 1976 by singer/songwriter and environmentalist John Denver along with aikido master Tom Crum. It is a non-profit environmental education organization that promotes the recognition and demonstration that each of us is part of, and responsible for, the quality of life on planet Earth.

Windstar's mission is to inspire individuals to make responsible choices and to take direct actions to achieve a peaceful and environmentally sustainable future. To that end, Windstar has made education a primary goal, developing the EARTHcamp program, among other projects.

Windstar Connection Groups are formed by Windstar Foundation members working together on a local level to network and carry out projects and forums of an action-oriented, educational nature. Through these Connection Groups, EARTHcamps are being hosted in areas throughout the country.
